A charter that was extorted in England by the force of arms has been voluntarily granted to India by her Empress. She is therefore to be adored as a goddess.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN, CALCUTTA, 1887-88.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Darjeeling, the 25th June 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual Report of the Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, for the year 1887-88.

THE Report, which is one of considerable interest, shows that steady progress was made during the year. Among the plants cultivated in the garden, the largest demands were made for the rhea and the rain-tree (Pithecolobium Saman). Mahogany trees were also propagated and distributed to a great extent. Many valuable contributions from well-known botanists were made to the Herbarium during the year. Among these, the set of plants of the large natural order Euphorbiaceæ, which were placed at the disposal of Sir Joseph Hooker, are of special value, as they have been returned by him bearing in his own handwriting the names given to them in his Flora of British India. The Library of the Botanic Garden also received a valuable acquisition in the transfer to it from the Royal Gardens at Kew, through the courtesy of the Director, Mr. Thiselton Dyer, of the correspondence of Dr. Wallich, extending from 1794 to 1849. The remarks made by the Superintendent in paragraph 6 of the Report, on the subject of the potato blight in Sikkim and the Khasia Hills, will be communicated to the Agricultural Department for consideration.

2. The thanks of Government are due to Dr. George King, F.R.S., for his admirable management of the garden during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

No. 21G, dated Calcutta, the 15th May 1888.

From—DAVID PRAIN, Esq., M.A., M.B., Acting Superintendent, Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit herewith the One Hundred and First Annual Report of the Royal Botanic Garden.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN FOR THE YEAR 1887-88.

No great change occurred in the garden during the year. Some minor improvements were effected. One more entrance gate was provided with a suitable durwan's lodge. A new road was made from the picnic banyan to the tree-nursery. This supplies a felt want, and forms the first instalment of a road system that will open up the part of the garden occupied till 1872 by the Agri-Horticultural Society, where the shrubs and trees are now in a condition worthy of being exhibited. This system will provide an alternative entrance to the gardens from the Andul Road. A considerable portion of one of the conservatory houses was replanted. Plants of the giant water lily (Victoria regia) were grown in several of the garden lakes. They attracted visitors largely, and though, as is usual, nearly all perished in the cold weather, seedlings have been raised in the nurseries for the ensuing year. The season being favourable to vegetation, and the number of plants exceeding that of former years, the show of orchids was finer than ever. Five separate attempts at encroachment on the boundary of the garden have been made during the year. All of these were successfully repelled, but the frequency of the occurrence, which has taken place in spite of the existence of a well-defined series of boundary pillars, has rendered it necessary to address Government for instructions as to the best means for preventing such disputes.

2. Notwithstanding the failure of parties interested to devise a satisfactory machine for cleaning Rheea fibre, this plant has been in greater request than ever. The demand for seeds and plants of the rain-tree (Pithecolobium Saman) was very extensive. This tree, a native of America, the history of whose introduction is narrated in the Garden Reports from 1878-81, is already well known in Bengal. Its timber is not valuable, but it grows rapidly; gives excellent shade, and is a useful nurse if planted with slower growing trees, to be cut down when the latter are sufficiently established. The reason for the suddenly increased demand was the statement that the rain-tree will grow on Usar soil, and that such soil can thus be reclaimed. Usar soil is barren: what is apparently meant is that the tree will grow on soil impregnated with reh salts. Such soil is not necessarily infertile, though without special treatment it may not afford crops except during the rains. The effects of the presence of trees may easily explain the absence of efflorescence of the reh salts without much improvement in the nature of the soil, nor would it be surprising to find that after a series of years of rain-tree cultivation analysis of the soil showed little change. But the cultivation of the tree is simple, and must increase the amenity of such districts; while its profuse crop of sweet pulpy pods, which cattle greedily eat, ripening as it does in April and May, supplies a valuable fodder when usually fodder is most scarce. Mahogany and other economic trees and plants were propagated and distributed to the fullest extent of which the garden is capable. A quantity of a special kind of wheat which grows in Mexico at an elevation of 11,000 feet was sent by the Secretary of State for India for experimental cultivation in Bengal. This was sent to Sikkim. It was received in March 1887, and had to be kept till October, the proper season for sowing. When it was sown unfortunately none of the seed germinated. In April 1887 a consignment of Eragrostis Abyssinica, or Teff, was also sent by the Secretary of State for India for experimental sowing. This grain is a native of Abyssinia at an elevation of 6,000 feet. It was sown both in Chota Nagpore and in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, but has not been successful in either locality.

3. The Herbarium was considerably enriched during the year. A set of plants of the large natural order Euphorbiaceæ, which had been placed at the disposal of Sir J. D. Hooker while describing that family for the Flora of British India, has been returned by the author. Each sheet is named by the author's own hand, its value as a type specimen being thus rendered priceless. From Kew the Director, Mr. Thiselton Dyer, C.M.G., has sent many valuable specimens; from St. Petersburg Dr. Regel and Mr. Maximowicz sent some valuable specimens which had been particularly asked for; Dr. Garcke of Berlin showed the same courtesy regarding some types which do not exist elsewhere; a beautiful set of Austro-Hungarian plants was presented by Dr. Kerner of Vienna; these, with a named collection from Mr. Medley-Wood of Natal and some critical specimens from Baron Von Müller of Melbourne, complete the extra-Asian contributions. Among Indian additions the chief place is due to the large and beautiful collection of rarities from Burma and the Shan Hills sent by General H. Collett, C.B. There were also received a fine collection from the Sikkim-Nepal frontier made by a Bhootea employed by Mr. Pantling, and an equally fine one made by a garden collector in the Chittagong Hill Tracts. Many rare things were also sent by Mr. G. Mann from Assam, Khasia, and Sylhet; Mr. J. F. Duthie of Saharanpur contributed a large number of named North-West Himalayan plants, and Major Sedgwick, R.E., a few interesting specimens from Kashmir.

4. Perhaps the most notable event of the year has been the transference of the correspondence of Dr. Wallich, Superintendent here between 1817-46, from the Library of the Royal Gardens at Kew to this Library. It constitutes 33 large volumes, and extends from 1794-1849. Some less valuable, but still highly interesting, botanical papers relating to Bengal and Assam accompanied the Wallichian correspondence. For the whole we are indebted to the good will and liberality of the distinguished Director of Kew, Mr. Thiselton Dyer, C.M.G., F.R.S.

5. The interchange and distribution department was particularly active. More plants were distributed than in any former year. This was in great measure due to the impetus given to roadside planting by the enlightened action of the Government of Bengal in the Department of Agriculture. Of plants 11,966 were received, against 67,854 given out. Of seeds 773 packets were received, against 2,714 given out. The names of all donors and recipients appear in the appendices to the report.

6. The Lloyd Botanic Garden at Darjeeling was under the charge of Mr. W. Kennedy. The ravages of potato-disease in Sikkim and the Khasia Hills have given a shock to the introduction of English tubers recommended in former reports. The improvement of quality noticed in 1885-86 has not continued. In 1886-87 it was found that English seed generally had turned out waxy and tasteless. The deterioration in quality, in all probability due to altered climatic conditions, has been accompanied by impaired resisting power, and they have fallen a prey to disease. Without raising any question as to the source of the disease, which those interested in introducing English seed not unnaturally declare to have previously existed in India, or at least deny having introduced with English seed, the fact remains that English tubers are particularly liable to be attacked. It seems desirable that seed from Malta, Australia, or elsewhere, where the conditions of growth differ less widely from those in the Indian hills, be imported rather than English ones.

7. The budget allotments of both Calcutta and Darjeeling gardens were spent in full. At Calcutta Rs. 784-11-6 were realised from the sale of surplus plants, or Rs 615-4-6 below the amount estimated, and at Darjeeling garden produce brought in a revenue of Rs. 961-12—an excess of Rs. 661-12 over the amount estimated.

8. Dr. King was absent on privilege leave from 27th June to 20th September 1887, and his duties during the interval were undertaken by me in addition to my own as Curator of the Herbarium. Mr. H. Bahr was Curator of the garden during the year; Mr. W. Kennedy, as already stated, held charge of the Darjeeling garden; and Mr. William McHardy was Assistant Curator at Calcutta.

Some damage has been caused to the aus crop and to amun seedlings. As there was no water in the canal, even the protected area suffered. The drought prevented indigo manufacture being commenced, and all the leaves fell off the plant. The present weather is, however, very forcing.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h. 10h. 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the readings during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers in the district send in returns divided by the number of stations. A relative day is one on which at least one hundredth of an inch falls.

the week ending Friday the 29th of June 1888.

CALCUTTA, the 3rd July 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 29TH OF JUNE 1888.

THE week under review has been a noticeable one in the meteorological history of the year, as the monsoon rains have only commenced over the greater part of the province during the latter end of the week, and they have therefore been about two weeks later than usual. At the close of the previous week the monsoon current blowing from the Bay of Bengal was being deflected towards Burma and the eastern districts generally, and Assam had been receiving heavy rain for some considerable period. The area receiving rainfall was, however, gradually extending, and moderate to heavy rain was being received in the Rungpore, Julpigore, Cooch Behar and Darjeeling districts of North Bengal; but the greater part of the remainder of the province had been almost rainless throughout the week ending the 22nd. A slight advance of humid winds had, however, taken place on this day in the western districts, as was shown by the rapid increase in the humidity in Behar, and moderate rainfall, apparently to a great extent brought about by a series of local storms, was reported on the 23rd from all the districts of South-West Bengal, except Midnapore and Moorshedabad. On the following day the area of rainfall contracted, and except at some of the stations in East and North Bengal, rainfall was practically absent from the province, and again ordinary hot weather conditions obtained over the greater part of Bengal. On the 25th and 26th, weather conditions had not changed to any material extent, except that there were slightly more favourable indications of the probability of the monsoon drifting over Bengal; but on the 27th a rapid and important change took place. On this day it almost appeared as if there had been a decided increase in the strength of the Bombay branch of the monsoon current; pressure rose rapidly in the western and central districts, and a south-westerly wind current set in at many of the stations in the centre and north of the province; and even at Darjeeling a strong south-westerly wind, averaging 21 miles an hour, was reported. With this sudden inrush of winds considerable interaction took place, and thunderstorms became numerous in the south of the province. On about the same day also the Bay of Bengal monsoon current commenced to spread over South-East Bengal, and it has since that day steadily advanced over the whole province, and from the 27th to the 29th considerable amounts of rain have been received. In South-West and East Bengal the general rainfall commenced on the 27th, and over a large part of North Bengal it began from about the 28th, except in the districts previously mentioned, viz., Rungpore, Julpigore, Cooch Behar and Darjeeling, where rain has been reported throughout the week. In North Behar and Chutia Nagpur also rainfall generally commenced about the 28th; but in South Behar even on the 29th, rainfall, though fairly general, was still very partial in some districts. Finally, in Orissa rainfall was light and irregularly distributed throughout the week. The monsoon rains may therefore be said to have only broken in the province from about the 27th to the 29th, and as the usual date of commencement is from the 10th to the 15th, or, say, the 12th June, the rains have been quite a fortnight late in setting in.

In the previous week's report it was stated that the delay in the advance of the monsoon current over Bengal, so far as could be judged, was probably due to the existence of disturbed conditions off the West Pegu and Arakan coasts, and that there were also distinct indications of the continued existence of a feeble low-pressure area in that locality. With the setting in of the rains in Bengal, the whole of the indications above referred to have completely disappeared, and conditions now appear normal in the Bay. But with the disappearance of these conditions in the Bay, a feeble but distinct tendency to the formation of a low-pressure area has commenced in South and South-West Bengal. The appearance of this tendency to low pressure, and consequent cyclonic circulation of winds in South Bengal simultaneously with the disappearance of these conditions in the Bay, may be merely a coincidence, or it may be they are directly connected with each other; but perhaps the latter is more probable, though the evidence available is not sufficient to prove any distinct connection between the two, or to prove the transfer of the disturbance from the one area to the other.

Pressure.—For the earlier part of the week the oscillations of pressure were of little importance, but, as stated previously, a rapid rise took place on the 27th, which was coincident with the setting in of favourable conditions for the commencement of the rains. When the mean pressures of the various stations in the province from which observations have been received for a long series of years are compared with the normal for the week, the distribution of pressure is found to be very unusual. Thus pressure has been distinctly below the normal at the greater number of inland stations in the centre of the province, while to the west and east there are bands of comparatively higher pressure. At such stations as False Point, Outack, Sangor Island, and Hazaribagh, the mean pressure has been above the normal; and at the eastern stations, such as Dacca, Burrisal, and Chittagong, pressure has also been above it; while at Calcutta, Burdwan, and Jessore, and most of the inland stations, pressure has been very distinctly below the normal, the extreme variations being from an excess pressure of about 0.04 inch in the one case to a defect of 0.038 in the other. For the whole province these variations to a great extent neutralize one another, and the mean pressure is only in defect of the normal by three thousandths of an inch.

Temperature.—Owing to the almost complete absence of rainfall from the greater part of the province for the first four days of the week, temperature has again been rather largely in excess of the normal in all districts except North Bengal, where an almost normal temperature has been recorded. In Chutia Nagpur the mean temperature for the week has been no less than $10\cdot2^{\circ}$ in excess of the normal, and in South Behar the excess has been $7\cdot9^{\circ}$. In South-West Bengal and Orissa the excess has varied from 4° to 5° , and in East Bengal and North Behar it has equalled about 2° . For the whole province temperature for the week has been in excess of the normal by $4\cdot6^{\circ}$. In Assam, on the other hand, the mean temperature has been in defect by $3\cdot2^{\circ}$. Dehree again reports this week the very high maximum temperature of 114° , and Gya one of $112\cdot1^{\circ}$.

Rainfall.—The period of the occurrence of rainfall has been previously recorded. The falls have been heaviest in North Bengal, which averages $5\cdot24$ inches, and has thus received a fall rather larger than the normal amount of $4\cdot42$ inches. In East Bengal an average fall of $3\cdot90$ inches is recorded, or almost absolutely the normal amount. In South-West Bengal a fall of $2\cdot13$ inches is recorded, or slightly lower than the normal for the week. The next largest fall is in North Behar, which averages $1\cdot35$ inches, or only about 50 per cent. of the amount usual at this period. In South Behar a fall of $1\cdot04$ inches is recorded, and Chutia Nagpur has received $1\cdot01$ inches, which amounts are about two-fifths of the normal falls; and finally, in Orissa a fall of only $0\cdot65$ inch has been received, which is only about a fifth of the usual amount.

In North Bengal some extremely heavy falls have been received during the week, and thus at Alipore Dooar (Julpigoree district) $23\cdot24$ inches has been received, at Dinhatta (Cooch Behar district) $19\cdot53$ inches, and at Fallacotta (Julpigoree district) $17\cdot68$ inches. Contrasted with these excessive falls, Sorah and Balasore in Orissa, Tajpur and Roshara in Durbhunga, Sasseram and Arrah in Shahabad, Daudnagar in Gya, Barrh in Patna, Monghyr and Gogri in Monghyr, Bhagulpore and Kolgong in Bhagulpore, and Hosseinabad in Lohardugga, have received absolutely no rain during the week.

The general districts in which the rainfall has been very scanty during the week are Pooree, Cuttack, Balasore, South-West Midnapore, South 24-Pergunnahs, Bogra, Pubna, Rajshahye, Maldah, Dinagepore, Purneah, Mozufferpore, Durbhunga, Sarun, Shahabad, Patna, South Bhagulpore, Monghyr, and Chyebassa.

In Assam excessive rain has been received during the week. Dhubri reports the extremely large fall of $26\cdot06$ inches, Silchar $9\cdot47$ inches, and Sibsagar $1\cdot83$ inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 29th of June 1888:—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives given as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans are included, to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.
